A KNIGHT OF 1901

By WILLIAM BLOSS.

(Copyright, 1901, by Authors Syndicate.)

LONG about the middle of that series of school "readers" which was most used a generation ago-it may have been the "third," or it may have been the "fourth" reader-was one which, among other classic selections, contained the account in verse of how, when the queen of the medieval fete had bantered Lord Francis to chase after the glove she had wantonly thrown into the arena among a ferocious collection of man-eating lions, the active and astute Lord Francis "lightly leaped" down to the arena sands, deftly snatched up the lady's glove before the astonished lions could figure out what he was up to, climbed nimbly back to his seat by the fair lady's side, and then-good Lord Francis!-threw the glove, slap bang, right in the lady's face.

"Not love," quoth he, "but vanity, prompted such a deed as this."

The poet fails to inform us upon the point, but one can imagine that after this there were no wedding bans for the fair ladye and Lord Francis, who was the catch of the season, and that she was exceeding sore about it, and repented her folly at leisure.

There may be different mental attitades regarding the propriety of this tempestuous conduct of Lord Francis, some, no doubt, contending that no true gentleman would under any stress of irritating circumstances return to a lady her glove by throwing it sharpy into her face, and that this breach of decorum at once stamped the knight as a boorish-mannered and racousminded person, whose name should be tricken from the blue book of his day; ut it appears to be a majority point of view that the lady was served exactly as she deserved, and that if she went unmarried to the end of her days she received only such measure as she meted. And strangely enough, it is the ladies themselves who most ardently uphold this latter view of the case. In the midsummer of this first year of our newest century, the big city of Chicago, stirred by the public spirit of a generous citizen, discovered in suddenness what had been a readily apparent fact for three whole generations-that its far-stretching shore of sandy beach and cooling water was a heritage of the people, and had not been designed by nature as a riparian asset for land-grabbing corporations or an easy dumping spot for the refuse of contractors. Accordingly, private means having furnished the equipments of which the civic purse had denied, or never thought of, there were established all along the shore, from the mouth of the sedgy Calumet to far Lake View, public bathing beaches, provided with convenient dressingrooms, with soap and towels and bathing suits, free for the uses of all who came, with life lines and floating rafts upon which the bathers could disport, and, above all, with expert attendants to teach the art of swimming and to be at touch in any moment of peril which might unhappily overtake the adapted for pleasure bathing. Public appreciation of this newfound luxury-and tacit condemnation of the civic stupidity which had so long denied it to the people, its real owners-was evidenced at once in the vast popularity these free bathing beaches leaped into in an instant and continued to hold until the mipping air of fall rendered undress disporting on the sands no longer a pastime and a joy. Hundreds of thousands of visitors, the records show, partook of their advantages during the brief season.

It was at the most frequented of all these beaches so opened to publie use that young Elmer Armstrong, a university matriculant, whose legacy had been a stout heart and ambition to rise, a strong body and the hardy constitution bequeathed by sturdy forbears, a pure mind and intrepid resolution. He had, besides, a widow's blessing and a couple of hundred dollars he had earned as an amateur life saver before he became a freshman at 19.

Not much, you will say, when it must be reckoned that this was absolutely all he had in the world, beyond the dear memory of how his mother had loved him, and had toiled long that he might go through the high school. Well, there are those worse equipped, many men whose white hairs speak of that wisdom whose seed are trial and experience would prefer Elmer Armstrong's capital of youth and courage and hope and loyalty to two hundred times two hundred dollars in the bank, without those things. It wasn't the pawnbrokers, but the youth who were swift and strong, whom the ancients crowned with laurel.

And Elmer Armstrong passed a useful and a prosperous and a sunlit summer. Useful because his swift daring in the water served to bring safely ashore many foolish swimmers who were overtaken by cramp in deep water, and many unaccustomed bathers who lost their balance and other way, remarks the Chicago Rectheir heads when the wind blew tempestuous breakers out of the east, the place.

However it may be, when he had met Celeste Elmer fell so deep into the well of love that he would like to have drowned there. Nor is this any metaphor of speech.

She came almost every day, after the first. The young guardian of the beach, a giant with blue eyes and yellow hair, an Antinous in naked calves and arms, taught the fairest of all his visitors the gentle art of floating, the strenuous rush and swirl of the overhand stroke, the restful, evenhanded, tireless progression of the breast stroke. She took to the water like a duck. After a month the pupil bid fair to overtake the mas-

She came first with her parents, and a vounger brother or two, graceless brats, canal bred, who had known how to swim at birth, and who took deep joy in splashing cold lake water upon the timid and shivering Celeste at her first venture. After a time the elder people came no more. They made Elmer's acquaintance and had confidencé in him. They saw at one keen glance the strength in his great frame, the honor in his clear blue eyes. To such as he it is good to commit children, even young girls. After a time, too, the brats also stayed away when they thought it was the hour for Celeste. You see, when she had learned no longer to fear the water, and had become mistress of a bold stroke or two, she revenged herself most thoroughly for the early splashing the brats had given her, and ducked them in deep water most unmercifully, until they were half strangled. Which fable teachesmuch. There's a meaty kernel in most fables, if one can crack the shell.

After that it was understood. There were no objections. "Wait a little," said Celeste's father. "Both of you are very young. Elmer must get on a little yet. Be happy, but wait, my chiltures, to laugh at pains, to woo, to dren." Celeste's father had quite a stock of sense.

THE AMERICAN NAVY.

Secretary Long Recommends an Increase in Ships and Men.

suggests the Revival of the Grade of Vice Admiral and An Increase in the Number of Cadets.

Washington, Nov. 16 .- The keynote of the annual report of Secretary Long for 1901 is "increase," and increase in both the number of ships and the number of officers and sailors for the navy.

"The navy to-day," he says, "is a far greater factor in our relations with the world than it was before the recent national expansion, which now includes Porto Rico, the Hawaiian islands, the vast area of land and sea in the Philippines, and our obligations to Cuba. If we are to have a navy at all, it must be commensurate with these great extensionsgreater in international than in territorial importance."

The secretary's recommendation for new construction based on the report of the general board headed by Adm. Dewey and that of the board of construction is as follows:

Three first-class battleships, two first-class armored cruisers, three gunboats, each of about 1,000 tons trial displacement; three gunboats, each of about 200 tons trial displacement, for insular service; three picket boats, each of about 650 tons trial displacement; three steel sailing training ships, each of about 2,000 tons trial displacement; one collier of about 15,000 tons trial displacement; four towboats.

All the vessels recommended in these two reports, says Secretary Long, are desirable in the prospective and harmonious development of our naval force, and a larger increase this year than usual is desirable because none were made last year.

The secretary places emphasis on the necessity for more line officers and more enlisted men. He recommends that the number of lieutenants be increased from 300 to 350, and that the limit of the number of junior lieutenants and ensigns be placed at 600. As to the enlisted men, he recommends that that force be increased by 3,000 men.

Another pressing need set out in the secretary's report is that for a national naval reserve, which was so strongly advocated by President Roosevelt when he was assistant secretary of the navy.

In connection with the subject of naval personnel, Secretary Long makes a number of important recommendations as follows: The revival of the grade of vice admiral, an increase of 50 per cent. in the number of cadets at the naval academy, an increase of the marine corps by 750 men, increase in the corps of nava constructors and of civil engineers, and no further appointments to the office of professor of matchmatics.

THE X RAYS.

A New Apparatus Designed For a Stereoptic Vision of Broken Bones, Etc.

New York, Nov. 16.-E. W. Caldwell describes in the current Electrical Review new apparatus designed for stereopic vision by X rays. It has been developed in the laboratory at the Bellevue Hospital Medical college, New York city. By using two sources of X rays in the same tube each eye views independently the shadow, with the result that the picture stands out distinctly, showing all the space relations of the objects viewed. It is thought that this method will be of the most value in surgery, permitting immediate examination of broken bones, etc., as if they were viewed by the eye with their positions accurately indicated, instead of in silhoulette effect, as formerly.

NOT GUILTY.

John Wilburn, Charged With the Murder of Rosa Hadson at Leavenworth. Acquitted.

Leavenworth, Kan., Nov. 16.-After being out but seven minutes the jury in the case of John Wilburn, charged with the murder of Mrs. Kosa Hudson in a raid on a "joint," brought in a verdict of "not guilty," and the CORN-No. 2 mixed .. prisoner was released. Evidence was OATS-No. 2 mixed .. adduced to convict four or five raiders, who have not yet been caught. Mrs. Hudson was killed in the wreckage of a "joint" during the Carrie Nation crusade.

Blooded Horses For New York.

Helena, Mont., Nov. 16.—Two special trains, bearing 232 head of blooded horses raised on the Bitter Root stock farm of the late Marcus Daly, left here for New York. The horses will be sold at the Madison Square garden. These are the last horses that will be sold from the ranch, all blooded animals having been shipped away.

On Detailed Duty.

Washington, Nov. 16 .- Naval Constructor Richmond P. Hobson has been detached from duty in the bureau of construction and repair and detailed to duty in connection with the management of the government naval exhibit at the Charleston exposition, South Carolina.

Vessels Missing.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 16.-The propeller, Thomas Davidsor, and consort, Aberdeen, coal laden, from Buffalo, for Milwaukee, are missing and fear is felt for their safety.

"Children," said the teacher, while instructing the class in composition, "you should not attempt any flights of fancy, but simply be yourselves and write what is in you. As a result of this advice Johnny Wise turned in the following composition:

The regular edition of the Wise News a country newspaper published at Wise, Va., failed to come out on time, last week, being two days late. The editor gave the following reasons in explanation:

"First:-We went to Big Stone Gap and sacrificed fifty cents to hear Sam Jones "cuss" the world and dance a jig on its coffin.

"Second:-To rest from that tired feeling which the Jones harangue brought upon us we went bird hunting on Wednesday, and got bored again. And like a cow's tail, we've been behind ever since.

"We are now free to confess that Sam Jones on morality, the bird-hunting on foot is enough to clog the wheels of the universe, much more those of a country newspaper."

You Do, or You Don't Need Glasses

The eye being a rather delicate organ, great care should be exercised in the selection of proper glasses. Many believe that glasses should be resorted to only when the sight becomes so defective as not to be able to do without. This is a great mistake which must be combatted Whenever there is unmistakable evidence of the need of their aid, they should be used. A neglect of this rule sometimes produces mischief which results in serious trouble if the course be persisted in.

A COAL MINE ON FIRE

Twelve Dead Bodies Taken Out and Twenty-Five Persons Rescued.

It Is Supposed That the Flames Were Started By a Defective Electric Light-Several Other Persons Are Missing.

Bluefield, W. Va., Nov. 15 .- Twelve dead bodies have been taken from the Baby mine at Pocahontas. Several other persons are unaccounted for, and 25 persons have been rescued more or less severely burned.

At 3 o'clock Thursday morning it was discovered that the Baby mine, of the Pocahontas Colliery Co., at Pocahontas, Va., was on fire. An alarm was sent in and the fire company responded promptly. In a very short time after the fire fighters had reached the mouth of the mines and were attempting to extinguish the flames some of the firemen and others having rushed inside the mines to ascertain the extent of the trouble and to assist miners entombed therein, a terrific explosion occurred and many miners and their friends were more or less injured., It is supposed that the mines caught fire from a defective electrict light wire

Twenty-five persons have been rescued, all more or less burnt, some seriously and perhaps fatally. The instantly killed were carried to their homes in wagons and all the physicians in Pocahontas have been busy two other explosions have followed that of the early morning, and others are hourly expected. The mine is still burning, and clouds of smoke are constantly issuing from its pected to encounter in him. mouth. The fan has now been stopped, and as soon as possible to do so the mine will be re-entered, with hope of extinguishing the fire.

In 1894 Pocahontas experienced a like occurrence, in which over 100 lives were lost.

The list of the dead so far recovered are: Louis Woolwine, John Bernhart, Will Montgomery, M. D. Koonts, and a Hungarian named Urico.

Woolwine, Montgomery and Koonts were killed while attempting to reach and bring out a dead body. At this time it is impossible to secure the names of those injured. As yet it is impossible to estimate the amount of damage to the mines.

At a late hour Thursday night it was thought that not over 20 men, the last shift of the day, were in the mine when the first explosion happened. Members of the rescuing party who escaped claim that they were within sight of two bodies lying on the ground supposed to be dead, when they were driven back by the second explosion.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 16 .- A Bluefield, W. Va., special says a rescue party entered the burning Baby mine at a favorable time and succeeded in reaching a point hitherto inaccessible They saw in the distance the corpses of six or perhaps seven men and endeavored to reach them but the extreme heat drove them back. The fire is growing fiercer. All efforts to get even partial control of it have proved futile.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS.

Much Damage Was Done to Property Near Richfield, Sever County, Utah.

Salt Lake, Utah, Nov. 15 .- A special from Richfield, Sever county, states that the damage to property in that county from Wednesday night's earthquake will amount to $100,000.

Scarcely a building escaped damage of some kind. The Mormon tabernacle at Richfield was damaged to the extent of $2,000. The members of the choir were in the structure at the time of the shock, and fled terrified, to the street.

At Marysvale the entire population left their homes after the firs: shock, built bonfires in the streets, and camped out all night. In many parts of the country landslides have occurred, blocking railroads, changing streams and causing general dis order.

JIM JEFFRIES WON.

The Big California Pugilist Still Retains the Championship of the World.

San Francisco, Nov. 16.-In one of the most unsatisfactory prize fights ever witnessed in this country, James J. Jeffries proved the victor Friday night over Gus Ruhlin, the Akron giant. In the fifth round of what was to have been a 20-round struggle Ruhlin wilted and then surrendered to his peer, to the utter amazement and disgust of the assembled thousands. No one was more surprised at the outcome than Jeff ries himself, who asserted that while he had delivered one telling blow in the second round, he did not expect to win the victory so easily. Ruhlin's sole explanation of the outcome of the fight is that he received a chance blow which utterly disabled him, and that Jeff persisted in fighting him low. While Ruhlin will make no absolute charge of Jeffries having committed a foul, he intimates that he was unfairly handled and injured as a result. Ruhlin received the support of his seconds in this stand, who say that his was a hopeless case after the second round. When seen in his dressing room after the fight Champion Jeffries said:

"I was certainly surprised at my easy victory and Ruhlin's amazing defeat. While it is true that he did not punch me hard enough during the five rounds to cause me any alarm, I believed him strong and cautious up to the moment of his collapse, and was surprised when he quit. I certainly had no trouble in whipping all day attending the injured. One or him, and had the fight gone on, the result must have been the same. Ruhlin was inaccurate and in poor wind, and I can not say that he even had the courage and force that I ex-

> "Ruhlin took a stiff punch in the stomach in the fourth round, which, I presume, gave him trouble, nevertheless I expected him to lose harder than he did. Ruhlin can doubtless best explain his own position, and as for myself, I am willing to meet Sharkey next month, and there after to defend as best I can the title I hold."

CARBON CAST STEEL.

A Private Test of An Armor Plate Was Made at the Indian Head Proving Ground.

Washington, Nov. 16 .- A private test was made at Indian Head of an armor plate made by the Carbon Steel Co., under patents of cast metal. The purpose is to combine a backing of low grade, soft and tough cast steel with a high carbon cast steel face, which may be made of any proportionate thickness. This plate is six inches thick, and was attacked by a six-inch gun, both shots cracking the plate. The inventors claim to be satisfied with the plan of effecting a complete union by casting together the two grades of steel.

One Killed and Four Wounded Near Madisonville, Ky.

A Well Directed Fire Was Poured Into the Houses Occupied By the Non-Union Employes and Their Families.

Madisonville, Ky., Nov. 18.—Mining troubles in this district brought bloodshed Sunday morning. Jas. H. Smith a Negro striker, is dead: Geo. Crouch another striker, is fatally wounded, while John West, Hut Dawson and Nathan Bush, all guards, are wounded none of them dangerously. The trouble occurred at the mines of the Providence Coal Co., 17 miles from here where an attack began at about 4:30 o'clock. The attacking party, some 75 or 80 strong, first fired on the engine house and then in a few minutes the company's stables were surrounded A horse and a mule were killed and several other animals disabled. By this time the guards were becoming active and the attackers formed in a semi-circle over the brow of the hill From there they poured a well directed fire upon the houses occupied by the non-union employes and their families. Men aroused by the crash of bullets rushed to small timber piles, arranged for use in such an emergency, and from behind these returned the

The attacking party, while sending volley after volley into this quarter, kept up a steady fire on the tiplet, engine room, stable and other buildings of the company while the guards, for their part, were doing effective work. The battle raged for almost an hour and a half when the assailants withdrew, leaving Smith dead and Crouch shot through and through on the field. How many wounded they took with them is not known, but the leader was seen to fall and it is believed some of the party who went to his rescue were hit.

County Judge Hall, at Providence. started an investigation. An inquest was held, the coroner's jury verdict being that the Negro came to his death at the hands of the guards, while defending life and property, and they were therefore justifiable. The news of the shooting spread like wildfire. It was not long before the news reached Adjt. Gen. Murray, who at once commenced an investigation, opening up communication with the governor.

Following the battle at the Providence mine there were riots at other Kentucky mines. An attack was made on the mine guards at the Monarch mines, three miles from Earlington Sunday night, but it was repulsed. Brigand Leaders Can Not Agree as to the Amount of Ransom For Miss Ellen M. Stone.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Nov. 18.—The brigands who abducted Miss Ellen M Stone, the American missionary, and Mme. Tsilka, her companion, have not yet replied to the latest proposals of Mr. Dickinson, diplomatic agent of the United States in Sofia. This is due to the fact that the hand has many lead ers and that the latter are unable to agree among themselves. There is a general impression here that time is being frittered away while waiting for the brigands to reduce their demands. It is felt that the only means from which matters can be brought to a head is to inform them as to the amount available for ransom and to declare that this can not be increased for any consideration whatever. Such an ultimatum might endanger the life of Miss Stone, but it is more probable that the brigands will accept this condition.

Besides every day's delay imperils her life, not so much on the score of the brigands themselves, but by reason of the exposure and strain she is undergoing.

Libby, McReill & Libby, CHICAGO

He was the friend of my boyhood. My youth and my manhood's prime, We had vowed to be ever faithful To the end of our earthly time. But somehow it happened we quarreled; One word to another led; And our eyes were flashing in anger And bitter was all we said.

That night I wrote such a letter As one might write to a foe, And told him that never thereafter Would I wish his presence to know; We must pass each other as strangers, Our lives henceforward apart; And let him know that forever I had torn him out of my heart.

Then I sought my bed, still raging, But I courted slumber in vain; The face of my more than brother Rose before me ever again. fle was always so true beside me And sharing all changes of life; Our words had been always of loving And never till now of strife.

And then our quarrel-what was it? How did it ever befall? Perhaps he was right—yes, I know it, It was I in the wrong, after all.
Then I rose from my bed, took the letter, And cast it into the fire; And there saw it smolder in ashes; And thus did my anger expire.

A fair morning shone on our meeting; A look we could each understand Had drawn us once more together In a warm, firm grasp of the hand. Not a word was said of our quarrel, Again it was friend and friend, Thank God that He never saw it-The letter I did not send!

Some of them apparently had taken refuge in the cellars or wood and coal sheds until thick darkness came down, and others had actually dared to enter the quarters of Lieut. Ray, for the back door was found wide open, the sideboard, wherein had been kept some choice old Kentucky whisky produced only on special occasions, had been forced, and the half-emptied demijohn and some glasses stood on the table in a pool of sloppy water.

But what was worse, the lieutenant's desk in the front room, securely locked when he went to town, had been burst open with a chisel. and Mr. Ray had declined to say how much he had lost. Indeed, he did not fully know.

"Too busy to come in," was the message he had sent his mother the morning after the discovery, and yet all that morning he remained about his quarters after one brief interview with the perturbed and exasperated post commander, ransacking desks, drawers and trunks in the vain hope that he might find in them some of the missing property, for little by little the realization was forced upon him that his loss would sum up several hundreds-all through his own neglect and through disregard of his father's earnest counsel.

Only three days before the lieutenant commanding his troop had been sent to Oregon and Washington on had only to acquaint his parents with duty connected with the mustering of volunteers. Their captain was a though the sum was great, it would field officer of one of the regiments be instantly made good. are among the best known of the many dangerous wild plants and shrubs. To touch or handle them quickly produces swelling and inflammation with intense itching and burning of the skin. The eruption almost as soon as the little blisters and pustules appeared the poison had reached the blood, and will break out at regular intervals and each time in a more aggravated form. This poison will loiter in the system for years, and every atom of it must be forced out of the blood before you can expect a perfect, permanent cure.

is the only cure for Poison Oak, Poison Ivy, and all noxious plants. It is comd exclusively of roots and herbs. Now is the time to get the poison out of your system, as delay makes your condition worse. Don't experiment longer with salves, washes and soaps—they never cure. Mr. S. M. Marshall, bookkeeper of the Atlanta (Ga.) Gas Light Co., was poisoned with Poison Oak. He took Sulphur, Arsenic and various other drugs, and applied externally numerous lotions and salves with no benefit. At times the swelling and inflammation was so severe he was almost blind. For eight years the poison would break out every season. His condition was much improved after taking one bottle of S. S. S., and a few bottles cleared his blood of the poison, and all evidences of the disease disappeared.

People are often poisoned without knowing when or how. Explain your case fully to our physicians, and they will cheerfully give such information and advice as you require, without charge, and we will send at the same time an interest-ing book on Blood and Skin Diseases.
